

Mr George Rose- Climate in Korea

“...When we arrived it was very hot. We’d walk around all day with thin shirts it was so hot. We had to wear trousers and puttees because of the danger of insects getting up your trousers. But then it got to November time, I think, or maybe a bit earlier, it was the rainy season and there was thick mud everywhere. Your boots would get caked with mud when you walked on it. Then in the Winter, it got bitterly cold and it was -30°C at times...”
